Plaintiffs bring this class action for damages, injunctive relief, and other relief pursuant to federal antitrust laws and state unjust enrichment, antitrust, unfair competition, and consumer protection laws, demand a trial by jury, and allege as follows:

NATURE OF ACTION

1. This lawsuit is brought as a proposed class action against Defendants Panasonic Corporation, Panasonic Corporation of North America (together, the “Panasonic Defendants” or “Panasonic”), Hitachi, Ltd., Hitachi Automotive Systems, Ltd., Hitachi Automotive Systems America, Inc. (together, the “Hitachi Defendants” or “Hitachi”), and unnamed co-conspirators, manufacturers and/or suppliers of Steering Angle Sensors (defined below) for engaging in a long-running conspiracy to unlawfully fix, artificially raise, maintain and/or stabilize prices, rig bids for, and allocate the market and customers in the United States for Steering Angle Sensors.

2. Plaintiffs seek to represent all automobile dealers who, during the period from and including September 1, 2000 through the present (the “Class Period”), purchased vehicles containing one or more Steering Angle Sensor(s) as a component part or purchased one or more Steering Angle Sensor(s) as a replacement part, which were manufactured or sold by the Defendants, any current or former subsidiary of the Defendants or any co-conspirator of the Defendants.

3. A Steering Angle Sensor is installed on the steering column of a vehicle and may be connected to and part of a combination switch; it detects the angle of the vehicle’s direction and sends signals to a vehicle computer which in turn controls for vehicle stability during turns.

4. The Defendants manufacture, market, and sell Steering Angle Sensors throughout and into the United States. The Defendants and other co-conspirators (as yet unknown) agreed, combined and conspired to fix, raise, maintain and/or stabilize prices, and rig bids and allocate market shares for Steering Angle Sensors.

5. The U.S. Department of Justice's ("DOJ") Antitrust Division is currently conducting a broad criminal investigation into illegal price-fixing and bid-rigging in the automotive parts industry. As part of its criminal investigation, the DOJ is seeking information about unlawful anticompetitive conduct in the market for a number of different but related automotive parts, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation ("FBI") has participated in raids, pursuant to search warrants, carried out in the offices of a number of major competitors in the automotive parts industry. The automotive parts investigation is the largest criminal investigation the Antitrust Division has ever pursued, both in terms of its scope and the potential volume of commerce affected by the alleged illegal conduct. The ongoing cartel investigation of price-fixing and bid-rigging in the automotive parts industry has yielded approximately $2.3 billion in criminal fines, already surpassing the total amount in criminal fines obtained by the DOJ's Antitrust Division for all of last fiscal year. The European Commission Competition Authority ("EC") has also conducted dawn raids at the European offices of several automotive parts manufacturers.

6. On July 18, 2013, the DOJ announced that Panasonic Corporation had agreed to plead guilty and to pay a $45.8 million criminal fine for its role in a conspiracy to fix prices of automotive parts, including Steering Angle Sensors, installed in automobiles sold in the United States and elsewhere.

7. On September 26, 2013, the DOJ announced that Defendant Hitachi Automotive Systems, Ltd. Had agreed to plead guilty and to pay a $195 million criminal fine for its role in a conspiracy to rig bids for, and to fix, stabilize, and maintain the prices of certain automotive parts installed in automobiles sold in the United States and elsewhere.

8. In its plea agreement, Defendant Hitachi Automotive Systems, Ltd. Agreed to “cooperate fully and truthfully with the United States in . . . the current federal investigation of violations of federal antitrust and related criminal laws involving the manufacture or sale of . . . automotive sensors” Hitachi’s guilty plea further provides that in exchange for its cooperation in the DOJ’s automotive parts investigation, including with respect to automotive sensors, the DOJ will refrain from criminally prosecuting Hitachi for price-fixing certain automotive parts, including automotive sensors.

9. The Defendants and their co-conspirators participated in a combination and conspiracy to suppress and eliminate competition in the automotive parts industry by agreeing to rig bids for, and to fix, stabilize, and maintain the prices of, Steering Angle Sensors sold to automobile manufacturers and others in the United States. The combination and conspiracy engaged in by the Defendants and their co-conspirators was in unreasonable restraint of interstate and foreign trade and commerce in violation of the Sherman Antitrust Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1, and state antitrust, unfair competition and consumer protection laws.

10. As a direct result of the anti-competitive and unlawful conduct alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the Classes (as defined below) paid artificially inflated prices for Steering Angle Sensors during the Class Period and have thereby suffered antitrust injury to their business or property.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

11. Plaintiffs bring this action under Section 16 of the Clayton Act (15 U.S.C. § 26) to secure equitable and injunctive relief against the Defendants for violating Section 1 of the Sherman Act (15 U.S.C. § 1). Plaintiffs also assert claims for actual and exemplary damages pursuant to state antitrust, unfair competition and consumer protection laws, and seek to obtain restitution, recover damages and secure other relief against the Defendants for violations of those state laws. Plaintiffs and the Classes also seek attorneys’ fees, costs, and other expenses under federal and state law.

12. This Court has jurisdiction over the subject matter of this action pursuant to Section 16 of the Clayton Act (15 U.S.C. § 26), Section 1 of the Sherman Act (15 U.S.C. § 1), and Title 28, United States Code, Sections 1331 and 1337. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction of the state law claims pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1332(d) and 1367, in that: (i) this is a class action in which the matter or controversy exceeds the sum of $5,000,000, exclusive of interests and costs, and in which some members of the proposed Classes are citizens of a state different from the Defendants; and (ii) Plaintiffs' state law claims form part of the same case or controversy as their federal claims under Article III of the United States Constitution.

13. Venue is proper in this District pursuant to Section 12 of the Clayton Act (15 U.S.C. § 22), and 28 U.S.C. §§ 1391 (b), (c), and (d), because a substantial part of the events giving rise to Plaintiffs' claims occurred in this District, a substantial portion of the affected interstate trade and commerce discussed below has been carried out in this District, and the Defendants reside, are licensed to do business in, are doing business in, had agents in, or are found or transact business in this District.

14. This Court has in personam jurisdiction over the Defendants because the Defendants, either directly or through the ownership and/or control of their subsidiaries, inter alia: (a) transacted business in the United States, including in this District; (b) directly or indirectly sold or marketed substantial quantities of Steering Angle Sensors throughout the United States, including in this District that were specifically designed for vehicles that were intended to be sold in the United States, including in this district; (c) had substantial aggregate contacts with the United States as a whole, including in this District; (d) targeted customers in the United States, including in this District; or (e) were engaged in an illegal price-fixing conspiracy that was directed at, and had a direct, substantial, reasonably foreseeable and intended effect of causing injury to the business or property of persons and entities residing in, located in, or doing business throughout the United States, including in this District (e) engaged in actions in furtherance of an illegal conspiracy in this district either itself or through its co-conspirators. The Defendants also conduct business throughout the United States, including in this District, and have purposefully availed themselves of the laws of the United States.

15. The Defendants engaged in conduct both inside and outside of the United States that caused direct, substantial and reasonably foreseeable and intended anticompetitive effects upon interstate commerce within the United States and import commerce into the United States.

16. The activities of the Defendants and their co-conspirators were within the flow of, were intended to, and did have, a substantial effect on interstate commerce of the United States. The Defendants' products are sold in the flow of interstate commerce.

17. Steering Angle Sensors manufactured abroad by the Defendants and sold for use in automobiles in the United States are goods brought into the United States for sale, and therefore constitute import commerce. To the extent Steering Angle Sensors are purchased in the United States, and such Steering Angle Sensors do not constitute import commerce, the Defendants' unlawful activities with respect thereto, as more fully alleged herein during the Class Period, had, and continue to have, a direct, substantial and reasonably foreseeable effect on United States commerce. The anticompetitive conduct, and its effect on United States commerce described herein, proximately caused antitrust injury to Plaintiffs and members of the Classes in the United States.

18. By reason of the unlawful activities hereinafter alleged, the Defendants substantially affected commerce throughout the United States, causing injury to Plaintiffs and members of the Classes. The Defendants, directly and through their agents, engaged in activities affecting all states, to fix, raise, maintain and/or stabilize prices, rig bids and allocate the market and customers in the United States for Steering Angle Sensors, which conspiracy unreasonably restrained trade and adversely affected the market for Steering Angle Sensors.

19. The Defendants' conspiracy and wrongdoing described herein adversely affected automobile dealers in the United States.

AGENTS AND CO-CONSPIRATORS

FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

A. The Steering Angle Sensors Industry

118. A Steering Angle Sensor is installed on the steering column of a vehicle and may be connected to and part of a combination switch; it detects the angle of the vehicle's direction and sends signals to a vehicle computer which in turn controls for vehicle stability during turns. Steering Angle Sensors manufactured by Defendants are shown below.

119. Steering Angle Sensors are installed by original equipment manufacturers (“OEMs”) in new cars as part of the automotive manufacturing process. They are also installed by OEMs in cars to replace worn out, defective or damaged Steering Angle Sensors.

120. For new cars, the OEMs—mostly large automotive manufacturers such as Toyota Motor Corporation—purchase Steering Angle Sensors directly from the Defendants. Steering Angle Sensors may also be purchased by component manufacturers who then supply such systems to OEMs.

121. When purchasing Steering Angle Sensors, OEMs issue Requests for Quotation (“RFQs”) to automotive parts suppliers on a model-by-model basis for model specific parts. Automotive parts suppliers submit quotations, or bids, to OEMs in response to RFQs, and the OEMs usually award the business to the selected automotive parts supplier for the lifespan of the model, which is usually four to six years. Typically, the bidding process for a particular model begins approximately three years prior to the start of production of a new model. OEMs procure parts for U.S.-manufactured vehicles both in Japan and the United States.

122. The Defendants and their co-conspirators supplied Steering Angle Sensors to OEMs for installation in vehicles manufactured and sold in the United States and elsewhere. The Defendants and their co-conspirators sold Steering Angle Sensors (a) in the United States and elsewhere for installation in vehicles manufactured and sold in the United States, (b) in Japan and elsewhere for export to the United States and installation in vehicles manufactured and sold in the United States, and (c) in Japan and elsewhere for installation in vehicles manufactured in Japan and elsewhere for export to and sale in the United States.

123. Suppliers, including Defendants, supply OEMs with both Steering Angle Sensors to be installed in vehicles and Steering Angle Sensors to be used for replacement purposes.

124. Replacement Steering Angle Sensors sold by OEMs to dealerships are the same as the Steering Angle Sensors installed in vehicles and are made by the same manufacturer who made the Steering Angle Sensors originally installed – that is the purpose of an OEM part, made by the OEM supplier. Such replacement parts are not the same as aftermarket parts, which are made by different manufacturers than those who manufactured the original parts. The prices of replacement Steering Angle Sensors were inflated by Defendants’ collusion.

125. Plaintiffs and members of the proposed Classes purchased Steering Angle Sensors indirectly from the Defendants. By way of example, an automobile dealer indirectly purchases one or more Steering Angle Sensors from the Defendants or their co-conspirators as part of purchasing a new vehicle. An automobile dealer also indirectly purchases for replacement one or more Steering Angle Sensors from the Defendants or their co-conspirators when repairing a damaged vehicle or when one or more of the vehicle’s Steering Angle Sensors are defective.

126. Panasonic’s main customers include Toyota, Honda, Mazda, and Nissan, among others.

127. Hitachi’s main customers include Ford, General Motors, Honda, Nissan and Toyota, among others.

B. The Defendants Increased Prices for Steering Angle Sensors in the Face of Declining Demand During the Class Period

128. The Producer Price Index (“PPI”) measures the average change over time in the prices received by domestic producers for their output. The chart below (see Figure 1) provides a 2004-2012 illustration of motor vehicle brake system equipment pricing. Because Steering Angle Sensors are part of a vehicle’s brake system, the PPI for motor vehicle brake system equipment is a good indicator of the change over time in the prices received by domestic producers of Steering Angle Sensors.

129. The PPI for motor vehicle brake system equipment indicates that the prices for Steering Angle Sensors have increased during the Class Period.

130. Meanwhile, according to data from Bloomberg, demand for automobiles in the United States has generally decreased during the Class Period. From 2004 to 2009, the auto industry experienced a nearly 40% drop in demand. See Figure 1. The PPI for motor vehicle brake system equipment for the very same time period indicates that prices for Steering Angle Sensors increased. According to the law of supply and demand, prices during this period should have fallen, but instead they increased.

131. In a competitive market, falling demand would lead to decreased prices because competitors would need to lower prices in order to attract customers and increase demand. In a market where competitors have engaged in a conspiracy to fix prices, however, competitors do not lower prices even when faced with decreasing demand. Such price decreases are unnecessary because the conspirators know that they will not lose sales to lower priced competitors.

132. The price of motor vehicle brake system equipment— and by extension Steering Angle Sensors – increased during the Class Period, even during periods when demand decreased. In a competitive market, falling demand should not have resulted in increased prices for Steering Angle Sensors. Such anticompetitive price increases have resulted in Plaintiffs and members of the Classes paying supracompetitive prices.

A. The Structure and Characteristics of the Steering Angle Sensors Market Render the Conspiracy More Plausible

133. The structure and other characteristics of the Steering Angle Sensors market in the United States are conducive to a price-fixing agreement, and have made collusion particularly attractive in this market. Specifically, the Steering Angle Sensors market: (1) has high barriers to entry; (2) has inelasticity of demand; and (3) is highly concentrated.

1. The Steering Angle Sensors Market Has High Barriers to Entry

134. A collusive arrangement that raises product prices above competitive levels would, under basic economic principles, attract new entrants seeking to benefit from the supra-competitive pricing. Where, however, there are significant barriers to entry, new entrants are less likely. Thus, barriers to entry help to facilitate the formation and maintenance of a cartel.

135. There are substantial barriers that preclude, reduce, or make more difficult entry into the Steering Angle Sensors market. A new entrant into the business would face costly and lengthy start-up costs, including multi-million dollar costs associated with manufacturing plants and equipment, energy, transportation, distribution infrastructure, and long-standing customer relationships.

136. The Defendants own at least one patent related to the manufacture of Steering Angle Sensors. These patents place a significant and costly burden on potential new entrants, who must avoid infringing on the patents when entering the market with a new product.

137. In addition, OEMs cannot change Steering Angle Sensors suppliers randomly after a supplier is initially selected because the OEMs design the features of their vehicles so that Steering Angle Sensors they purchase for a vehicle are then integrated with the electronics, mechanics and other features of the particular vehicle model. Thus, the design must be synergized by Steering Angle Sensors manufacturers and OEMs. It would be difficult for a new market entrant to do so.

2. There is Inelasticity of Demand for Steering Angle Sensors

138. “Elasticity” is a term used to describe the sensitivity of supply and demand to changes in one or the other. For example, demand is said to be “inelastic” if an increase in the price of a product results in only a small decline in the quantity sold of that product, if any. In other words, customers have nowhere to turn for alternative, cheaper products of similar quality, and so continue to purchase despite a price increase.

139. For a cartel to profit from raising prices above competitive levels, demand must be relatively inelastic at competitive prices. Otherwise, increased prices would result in declining sales, revenues, and profits, as customers purchased substitute products or declined to buy altogether. Inelastic demand is a market characteristic that facilitates collusion, allowing producers to raise their prices without triggering customer substitution and lost sales revenue.

140. Demand for Steering Angle Sensors is highly inelastic because there are no close substitutes for these products. In addition, customers must purchase Steering Angle Sensors as an essential part of a vehicle, even if the prices are kept at a supra-competitive level. Customers wanting to purchase a car simply have no choice but to purchase a Steering Angle Sensor.

3. The Market for Steering Angle Sensors Is Highly Concentrated

141. A highly concentrated market is more susceptible to collusion and other anticompetitive practices. There is a high level of concentration among firms in the Steering Angle Sensors market. According to a leading industry report, the top four suppliers of Steering Angle Sensors control 99% of the North America market.

B. Government Investigations

142. A globally coordinated antitrust investigation is taking place in the United States, Europe, and Japan, aimed at suppliers of automotive parts. A Japan Fair Trade Commission (“JFTC”) official told a leading legal publication that automotive parts supplier investigations by the JFTC, DOJ and EC would continue to widen because the automotive industry as a whole comprises many sub-industries. He characterized the investigations being conducted by the U.S., European and Japanese antitrust authorities as “large and broad,” and he declined to deny that this “would be history’s largest case.”

143. The DOJ Antitrust Division’s broad criminal investigation into illegal price-fixing and bid-rigging in the automotive parts industry is the largest criminal investigation the Antitrust Division has ever pursued. The ongoing cartel investigation of price-fixing and bid-rigging in the automobile parts industry has yielded approximately $2.3 billion in criminal fines, already surpassing the total amount in criminal fines obtained by the DOJ’s Antitrust Division for all of last fiscal year.

144. On July 18, 2013, the DOJ announced that Defendant Panasonic Corporation had agreed to pay a $45.8 million criminal fine and to plead guilty to a three-count criminal information charging it with participating in a combination and conspiracy to suppress and eliminate competition in the automotive parts industry by agreeing to rig bids for, and to fix, stabilize, and maintain the prices of automotive parts, including Steering Angle Sensors sold to Toyota Motor Corporation and Toyota Motor Engineering & Manufacturing North America, Inc. (collectively, "Toyota") for installation in vehicles manufactured and sold in the United States and elsewhere from at least as early as September 2003 and continuing until at least February 2010 in violation of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1.

145. According to the Information filed July 18, 2013, Defendant Panasonic Corporation and its co-conspirators carried out the Steering Angle Sensors conspiracy by:

- (a) participating in meetings, conversations, and communications in the United States and Japan to discuss the bids and price quotations to be submitted to Toyota in the United States and elsewhere;
- (b) agreeing, during those meetings, conversations, and communications, on bids and price quotations to be submitted to Toyota in the United States and elsewhere;
- (c) agreeing, during those meetings, conversations, and communications, to allocate the supply of Steering Angle Sensors sold to Toyota in the United States and elsewhere on a model-by-model basis;
- (d) agreeing, during those meetings, conversations, and communications, to coordinate price adjustments requested by Toyota in the United States and elsewhere;
- (e) submitting bids, price quotations, and price adjustments to Toyota in the United States and elsewhere in accordance with the agreements reached;
- (f) selling Steering Angle Sensors to Toyota in the United States and elsewhere at collusive and noncompetitive prices;

(g) accepting payment for Steering Angle Sensors sold to Toyota in the United States and elsewhere at collusive and noncompetitive prices;

(h) engaging in meetings, conversations, and communications in the United States and elsewhere for the purpose of monitoring and enforcing adherence to the agreed-upon bid-rigging and price-fixing scheme; and

(i) employing measures to keep their conduct secret, including, but not limited to, using code names and meeting at remote locations and unusual times.

146. According to the Plea Agreement filed August 5, 2013, between September 2003 and February 2010, Panasonic Defendant Panasonic Corporation's relevant sales of Steering Angle Sensors to Toyota totaled approximately $58.7 million.

147. The Plea Agreement also states that Defendant Panasonic Corporation sold Steering Angle Sensors to Toyota Motor Engineering & Manufacturing North America, Inc. through its United States subsidiary, which is located in the Eastern District of Michigan.

148. Additionally, on September 24, 2013, the DOJ announced that a Detroit Federal grand jury returned an indictment against an executive of Panasonic Automotive Systems Company of America, a division of Defendant Panasonic Corporation of North America, Shinichi Kotani, for his participation in a combination and conspiracy to suppress and eliminate competition in the automotive parts industry by agreeing to rig bids for, and to fix, stabilize and maintain the prices of, automotive parts, including Steering Angle Sensors sold to Toyota for installation in vehicles manufactured and sold in the United States and elsewhere from at least as early as January 2004 and continuing until at least February 2010 in violation of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1.

149. According to the Indictment filed September 24, 2013, Shinichi Kotani and his co-conspirators carried out the Steering Angle Sensors conspiracy by:

(a) participating in, and directing, authorizing, or consenting to the participation of subordinate employees in, meetings, conversations, and communications in the United States and Japan to discuss the bids and price quotations to be submitted to Toyota in the United States and elsewhere;

(b) agreeing, during those meetings, conversations, and communications, on bids and price quotations to be submitted to Toyota in the United States and elsewhere;

(c) agreeing, during those meetings, conversations, and communications, to allocate the supply of Steering Angle Sensors sold to Toyota in the United States and elsewhere on a model-by-model basis;

(d) approving collusive and noncompetitive prices agreed upon by subordinates during those meetings, conversations, and communications in the United States and elsewhere;

(e) submitting bids and price quotations to Toyota in the United states and elsewhere in accordance with the agreements reached;

(f) selling Steering Angle Sensors to Toyota in the United States and elsewhere at collusive and noncompetitive prices;

(g) accepting payment for Steering Angle Sensors sold to Toyota in the United States and elsewhere at collusive and noncompetitive prices; and

(h) engaging in meetings, conversations, and communications in the United States and Japan for the purpose of monitoring and enforcing adherence to the agreed-upon bid-rigging and price-fixing scheme.

150. On September 26, 2013, the DOJ announced that Defendant Hitachi Automotive Systems, Ltd. had agreed to pay a $195 million criminal fine and to plead guilty to a one-count criminal information charging it with participating in a combination and conspiracy with its co-conspirators to suppress and eliminate competition in the automotive parts industry by agreeing to rig bids for, and to fix, stabilize, and maintain the prices of certain automotive parts sold to automobile manufacturers, including Ford, General Motors, Honda, Nissan and Toyota, and certain of their subsidiaries, affiliates, and suppliers in the United States and elsewhere from at least as early as January 2000 and continuing until at least February 2010 in violation of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1.

151. In its plea agreement, Defendant Hitachi Automotive Systems, Ltd. agreed to “cooperate fully and truthfully with the United States in . . . the current federal investigation of violations of federal antitrust and related criminal laws involving the manufacture or sale of . . . automotive sensors” Hitachi’s guilty plea further provides that in exchange for its cooperation in the DOJ’s automotive parts investigation, including with respect to automotive sensors, the DOJ will refrain from criminally prosecuting Hitachi for price-fixing certain automotive parts, including automotive sensors.

C. Guilty Pleas in Related Markets in the Automotive Industry

152. On September 29, 2011, the DOJ announced that Furukawa Electric Co. Ltd. (“Furukawa”) had agreed to plead guilty and to pay a $200 million fine for its role in a criminal price-fixing and bid-rigging conspiracy involving the sale of automotive wire harnesses to automobile manufacturers.

153. In the press release announcing the fine against Furukawa, Sharon A. Pozen, at the time the Acting Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Department of Justice’s Antitrust Division, said that “[t]his cartel harmed an important industry in our nation’s economy, and the Antitrust Division with the Federal Bureau of Investigation will continue to work together to ensure that these kinds of conspiracies are stopped.”

154. Three of Furukawa’s executives also pleaded guilty to the same conspiracy. The court sentenced two of the executives to 15 and 18 month prison sentences, to be served in the United States.

155. On January 30, 2012, the DOJ announced that Yazaki Corporation (“Yazaki”) and DENSO Corporation (“DENSO”) had agreed to plead guilty and to pay a total of $548 million in criminal fines for their involvement in multiple price-fixing and bid-rigging conspiracies in the sale of automotive parts to automotive manufacturers in the United States. According to the three-count felony charge against Yazaki, it engaged in the following three conspiracies: (1) participating in a combination and conspiracy with its co-conspirators to suppress and eliminate competition in the automotive parts industry by agreeing to rig bids for, and to fix, stabilize, and maintain the prices of, automotive wire harnesses and related products sold to automobile manufacturers in the United States and elsewhere from at least as early as January 2000 and continuing until at least February 2010 in violation of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1; (2) participating in a combination and conspiracy to suppress and eliminate competition in the automotive parts industry by agreeing to rig bids for, and to fix, stabilize, and maintain the prices of, instrument panel clusters sold to automobile manufacturers in the United States and elsewhere, from at least as early as December 2002 until at least February 2010, in violation of the Sherman Antitrust Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1; and (3) participating in a combination and conspiracy with its co-conspirators to suppress and eliminate competition in the automotive parts industry by agreeing to rig bids for, and to fix, stabilize, and maintain the prices of fuel senders sold to automobile manufacturers in the United States and elsewhere from at least as early as March 2004 and continuing until at least February 2010 in violation of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1.

156. According to the two-count felony charge against DENSO, it engaged in conspiracies to rig bids for and to fix, stabilize, and maintain the prices of electric control units and heater control panels.

157. In the press release announcing the fines against Yazaki and DENSO, FBI Special Agent in Charge Andrew G. Arena said that “[t]his criminal activity has a significant impact on the automotive manufacturers in the United States, Canada, Japan and Europe and has been occurring for at least a decade. The conduct had also affected commerce on a global scale in almost every market where automobiles are manufactured and/or sold[.]”

158. In addition to Yazaki, executives from the company (all Japanese nationals) – Tsuneaki Hanamura, Ryoji Kawai, Shigeru Ogawa, Kazuhiko Kashimoto and Hisamitsu Takada – pleaded guilty to their participation in a conspiracy to suppress and eliminate competition in the automotive parts industry by agreeing to rig bids for, and to fix, stabilize, and maintain the prices of automotive wire harnesses sold to automobile manufacturers in the United States and elsewhere in violation of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1. These Yazaki executives will each pay a $20,000 criminal fine and serve prison time ranging from 15 months to two years. The two-year sentences would be the longest term of imprisonment imposed on a foreign national voluntarily submitting to U.S. jurisdiction for a Sherman Act antitrust violation.

159. On March 26, 2012, the DOJ announced that Norihiro Imai, an executive of Defendant DENSO Corporation, agreed to serve one year and one day in a U.S. prison, pay a $20,000 criminal fine, and plead guilty to a one-count criminal Information charging him with engaging in a conspiracy to rig bids for, and to fix, stabilize, and maintain the prices of heater control panels sold to customers in the United States.

160. On April 26, 2012, the DOJ announced that Makoto Hattori, another executive of Defendant DENSO Corporation, agreed to serve fourteen month in a U.S. prison, pay a $20,000 criminal fine, and plead guilty to a one-count criminal Information charging him with engaging in a conspiracy to rig bids for, and to fix, stabilize, and maintain the prices of heater control panels sold to a customer in the United States and elsewhere.

161. On May 21, 2013, the DOJ announced that Yuji Suzuki, yet another executive of Defendant DENSO Corporation, agreed to serve sixteen months in a U.S. prison, pay a $20,000 criminal fine, and plead guilty to a two-count criminal Information for his role in a conspiracy to rig bids for, and to fix, stabilize, and maintain the prices of electronic control units and heater control panels sold in the United States and elsewhere.

162. On July 10, 2013, the European Commission fined four wire harness suppliers, Yazaki, S-Y Systems, Furukawa Electric and Leoni, a total of $182 million for taking part in cartels that affected Toyota, Nissan, Honda and Renault.

163. On July 16, 2013, the DOJ announced that Diamond Electric Mfg. Co. Ltd. ("Diamond Electric") had agreed to plead guilty and to pay a $19 million criminal fine for its role in a conspiracy to fix prices of ignition coils installed in automobiles sold in the United States and elsewhere.

164. In the press release announcing the fine against Diamond Electric, Robert D. Foley, III, Agent in Charge, FBI Detroit Division said "[t]hose who engage in price fixing, bid rigging and other fraudulent schemes harm the automotive industry by driving up costs for vehicle makers and buyers."

165. Defendant Panasonic Corporation on July 18, 2013 agreed to plead guilty, paying a total of $45.8 in criminal fines, for its involvement in two other conspiracies to fix prices of various automotive parts including HID Ballasts, switches, and steering angle sensors installed in automobiles sold in the United States and elsewhere.

166. On September 11, 2013, two Fujikura, Ltd. executives were indicted for conspiring to fix the price of wire harness assemblies to Fuji Heavy Industries, the maker of Subaru automobiles.

167. On September 24, 2013, the DOJ announced that a grand jury returned an indictment against Shinichi Kotani, an executive of Defendant Panasonic Corporation, for his role in an international conspiracy to fix prices of automotive parts including switches and steering angle sensors sold in the United States and elsewhere.

168. On September 26, 2013, nine additional Japanese automotive suppliers and two more executives agrees to plead guilty to conspiracy charges and pay more than $740 million in fines for their roles in rigging the prices of 30 products.

169. On October 9, 2013, Takata Corporation announced that it had agreed to pay $71.3 million to settle antitrust charges brought by United States federal prosecutors for its role in a conspiracy to price-fix seatbelts.

170. On November 26, 2013, the DOJ announced that Toyo Tire & Rubber Co. Ltd had agreed to plead guilty and to pay a $120 million criminal fine for its role in two separate conspiracies to fix the prices of automotive components involving anti-vibration rubber and driveshaft parts installed in automobiles sold in the United States and elsewhere.

171. On November 27, 2013, the DOJ announced that Defendant Stanley Electric Co. Ltd. had agreed to plead guilty and to pay a $1.44 million criminal fine for its participation in a conspiracy to fix prices of HID Ballasts and automobile lighting fixtures installed in cars sold in the United States and elsewhere.

172. On January 16, 2014, the DOJ announced that Defendant Koito Manufacturing Co., Ltd. had agreed to plead guilty and to pay a $56.6 million criminal fine for its roles in price-fixing conspiracies involving HID Ballasts and automobile lighting fixtures installed in cars sold in the United States and elsewhere.

173. On February 3, 2014, the DOJ announced that Aisan Industry Co. Ltd. had agreed to plead guilty and to pay a $6.86 million criminal fine for its role in a price-fixing conspiracy involving electronic throttle bodies sold to automobile manufacturers in the United States and elsewhere.

174. On February 13, 2014, the DOJ announced that Bridgestone Corp. had agreed to plead guilty and to pay a $425 million criminal fine for its role in a conspiracy to fix prices of automotive anti-vibration rubber parts installed in automobiles sold in the United States and elsewhere.

175. On February 20, 2014, the DOJ announced that Kazuaki Fujutani, a former executive of Defendant DENSO Corporation, agreed to serve one year and one day in a U.S. prison and plead guilty to a one-count criminal Information charging him with obstruction of justice for deleting numerous e-mails and electronic documents upon learning the FBI was executing a search warrant on Defendant DENSO International America, Inc., in connection with the DOJ's investigation into a conspiracy to fix the prices of heater control panels installed in automobiles sold in the United States and elsewhere.

176. On April 23, 2014, the DOJ announced that Showa Corp. had agreed to plead guilty and to pay a $19.9 million criminal fine for its role in a conspiracy to fix prices and rig bids for pinion-assist type electric powered steering assemblies installed in cars sold in the United States and elsewhere.

177. The number of companies which have pleaded guilty to fixing the prices of various automotive parts (including automotive wire harnesses; instrument panel clusters; fuel senders; heater control panels; occupant safety restraint systems; automotive bearings; windshield wipers; starters; radiators; alternators; Steering Angle Sensors; anti-vibration rubber parts; air conditioning systems; automatic transmission fluid warmers; fan motors; and automotive lamps) is staggering. Along with those already mentioned in this Complaint, these companies include: Fujikura Ltd.; GS Electech, Inc.; TRW Deutschland Holding GmbH; Autoliv, Inc.; Nippon Seiki Co., Ltd.; JTEKT Corporation; Mitsuba Corporation; Mitsubishi Electric Corporation; Mitsubishi Heavy Industries, Ltd.; NSK Ltd.; Panasonic Corporation; T. RAD Co., Ltd.; Tokai Rika Co.; Valeo Japan Co., Ltd.; and Yamashita Rubber Co., Ltd. The majority of these violators pleaded guilty to engaging in bid-rigging, price-fixing, and market allocation during the same time period as the Defendants with multiple OEMs as their targets, including Suzuki, Honda, Toyota, Mazda, Mitsubishi, Subaru, Chrysler, German manufacturers and unnamed automobile manufacturers.

178. To date, twenty-seven companies and thirty-five executives have been charged in the Antitrust Division's ongoing investigation into price fixing and bid rigging in the auto parts industry. Each of the twenty-seven companies has agreed to plead guilty, and altogether they have agreed to pay approximately $2.3 billion in criminal fines. Twenty-four of the thirty-five executives have been sentenced to serve time in U.S. prisons or have entered into plea agreements.

179. The U.S. government has said its automotive parts cartel criminal investigation will continue and other suppliers could be charged.

180. “This criminal activity has a significant impact on the automotive manufacturers in the United States, Canada, Japan and Europe and has been occurring for at least a decade. The conduct had also affected commerce on a global scale in almost every market where automobiles are manufactured and/or sold,” said FBI’s Special Agent in Charge Andrew G. Arena.

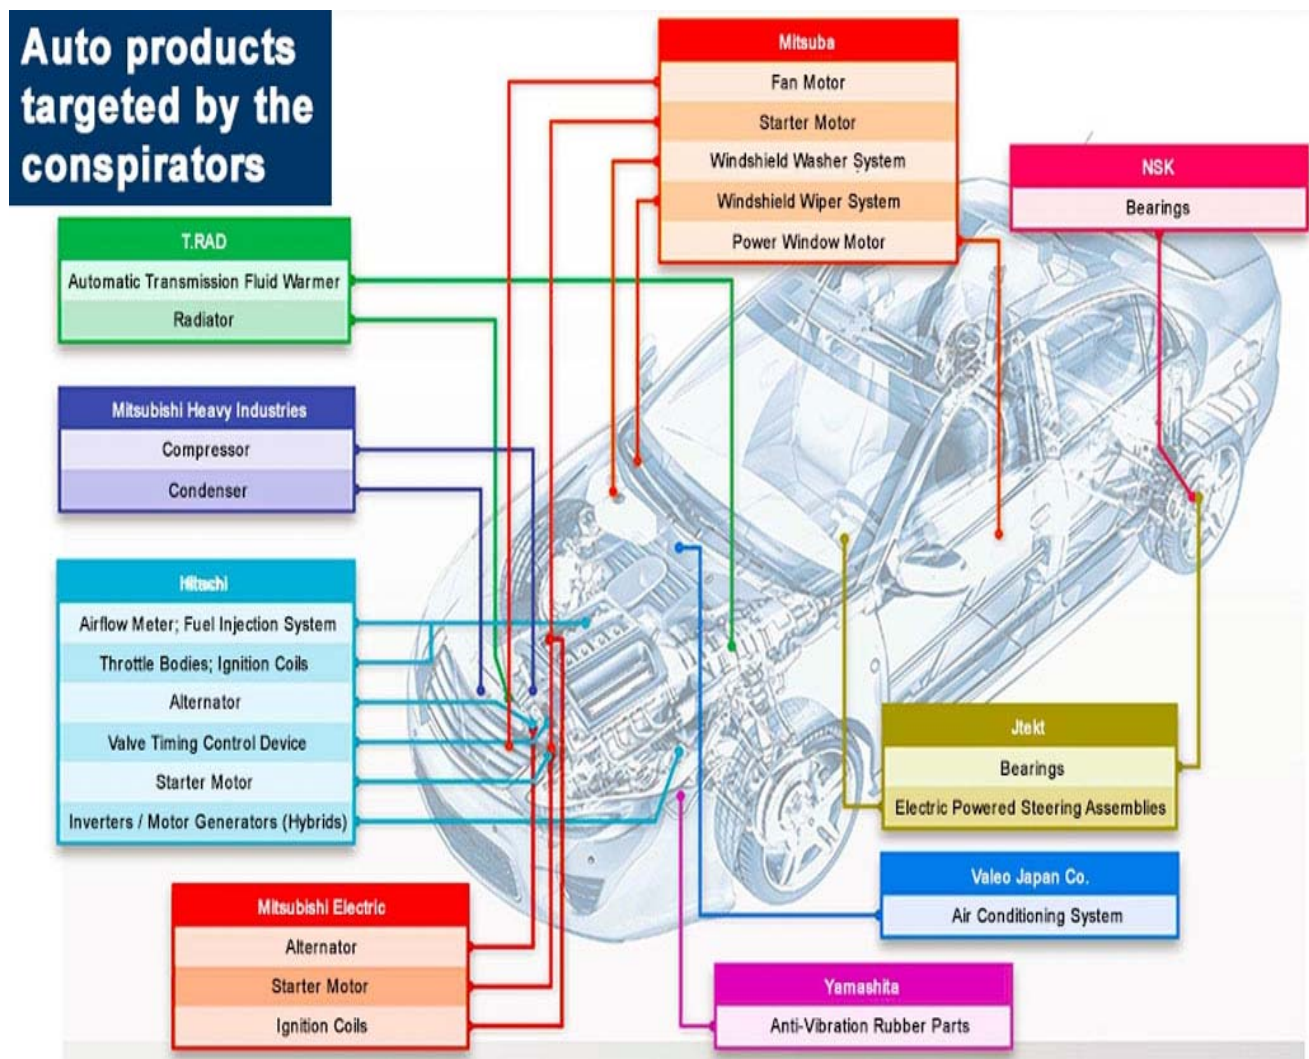

181. “When companies partner to control and price fix bids or contracts, it undermines the foundation of the United States’ economic system,” Arena also said. “The FBI is committed to aggressively pursuing any company involved in antitrust crimes.”

182. On February 15, 2013, Scott Hammond, the Deputy Assistant Attorney General in the Antitrust Division, discussed the DOJ’s ongoing automotive parts investigation in a Thomson Reuters article. He said “[t]he investigation is broader than what we’ve announced so far [The investigation] is still very much ongoing, but it already appears to be the biggest criminal antitrust investigation that we’ve ever encountered. I say the biggest with respect to the impact on U.S. businesses and consumers, and the number of companies and executives that are subject to the investigation.” (emphasis added).

183. On September 26, 2013, United States Attorney General Eric Holder presented the DOJ’s most recent findings in the ongoing automotive parts investigation. He stated “[t]hese international price-fixing conspiracies affected more than $5 billion in automobile parts sold to U.S. car manufacturers. In total, more than 25 million cars purchased by American consumers were affected by the illegal conduct.” The Attorney General also described how the conspiracies worked: “[c]ompany executives met face to face in the United States and Japan – and talked on the phone – to reach collusive agreements to rig bids, fix prices and allocate the supply of auto parts sold to U.S. car companies. In order to keep their illegal conduct secret, they used code names and met in remote locations. Then they followed up with each other regularly to make sure the collusive agreements were being adhered to.” Attorney General Holder explained that the automotive parts conspiracies “targeted U.S. manufacturing, U.S. businesses, and U.S. consumers.”

184. The diagram below, which was prepared by the DOJ, illustrates the multiple guilty pleas and the corresponding automotive parts to which the various manufacturers have admitted price fixing:

D. Likely Existence of an “Amnesty Applicant.”

185. The Antitrust Criminal Penalty Enhancement and Reform Act (“ACPERA”) provides leniency benefits for a participant in a price-fixing conspiracy that voluntarily discloses its conduct to the Department of Justice. In most recent cases in which guilty pleas for price-fixing conduct have been obtained, there has been a cooperating party that has been accepted into the DOJ’s ACPERA program as an “amnesty applicant.” One of the leniency benefits for a conspirator that is accepted into the ACPERA program is that it is not charged with a criminal offense and is not required to plead guilty to criminal charges.

186. In light of the guilty pleas in this case, guilty pleas in related automotive parts antitrust cases and the DOJ’s ongoing investigation into the industry, it is reasonable for this Court to infer that there is an ACPERA “amnesty applicant” in this case.

E. Damage to Plaintiffs and Other Automobile Dealers Caused by Defendants’ Illegal Activities.

187. The Defendants’ conspiracy resulted in the Defendants charging inflated prices to firms who directly purchased Steering Angle Sensors from them and in those purchasers raising their prices to subsequent purchasers.

188. Having paid higher prices for components of the cars they sold to Plaintiffs and the Classes and the Steering Angle Sensors they sold to Plaintiffs and the Classes, firms who sold such Steering Angle Sensors and vehicles passed the Defendants’ overcharges on to Plaintiffs and the Classes.

189. Plaintiffs and the Classes are entitled to the overcharges they paid for Steering Angle Sensors.

190. Plaintiffs have standing and have suffered damage compensable by indirect purchaser laws and they and members of the classes they seek to represent have sustained significant damage and injury as a result of the Defendants' conspiracy.

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

191. Plaintiffs bring this action on behalf of themselves and as a class action under Rule 23(a) and (b)(2) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, seeking equitable and injunctive relief on behalf of the following class (the "Nationwide Class"):

All automobile dealers that, during the Class Period, (a) indirectly purchased Steering Angle Sensors manufactured or sold by a Defendant or any current or former subsidiary or affiliate thereof or any co-conspirator, or (b) purchased vehicles containing Steering Angle Sensors manufactured or sold by a Defendant or any current or former subsidiary, affiliate thereof or co-conspirator.

192. Plaintiffs also bring this action on behalf of themselves and as a class action under Rule 23(a) and (b)(3) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure seeking damages pursuant to the antitrust, unfair competition, unjust enrichment, and consumer protection laws of the states whose laws are set forth in the Second and Third Claims below, as well as the unjust enrichment laws of Missouri, Massachusetts and Illinois. The states whose laws are set forth in the Second and Third Claims below, as well as Missouri, Massachusetts, and Illinois, are collectively referred to as the "Indirect Purchaser States." These claims are brought by Plaintiffs on behalf of themselves and entities in the Indirect Purchaser States listed in the Second, Third and Fourth Claims as follows (the "Damages Class"):

All automobile dealers, in the Indirect Purchaser States, that, during the Class Period (a) indirectly purchased Steering Angle Sensors manufactured or sold by one of the Defendants or any current or former subsidiary or affiliate thereof, or any co-conspirator or (b) purchased vehicles containing Steering Angle Sensors manufactured or sold by one of the Defendants or any current or former subsidiary, affiliate or co-conspirator thereof.

193. The Nationwide Class and the Damages Class are referred to herein as the "Classes." Excluded from the Classes are the Defendants, their parent companies, subsidiaries and affiliates, any co-conspirators, federal governmental entities and instrumentalities of the federal government, states and their subdivisions, agencies and instrumentalities, any judicial officer presiding over this matter, persons who purchased Steering Angle Sensors directly, and persons in the End-Payor Class, as defined in the End-payor complaint.

194. While Plaintiffs do not know the exact number of the members of the Classes, Plaintiffs believe there are (at least) thousands of members in each Class.

195. Common questions of law and fact exist as to all members of the Classes. This is particularly true given the nature of the Defendants' and their co-conspirators' conspiracy, which was generally applicable to all the members of both Classes, thereby making appropriate relief with respect to the Classes as a whole. Such questions of law and fact common to the Classes include, but are not limited to:

- (a) Whether the Defendants and their co-conspirators engaged in a combination and conspiracy among themselves to fix, raise, maintain or stabilize the prices of Steering Angle Sensors sold in the United States;
- (b) The identity of the participants of the alleged conspiracy;
- (c) The duration of the alleged conspiracy and the acts carried out by the Defendants and their co-conspirators in furtherance of the conspiracy;
- (d) Whether the alleged conspiracy violated the Sherman Act, as alleged in the First Claim for Relief;
- (e) Whether the alleged conspiracy violated state antitrust and unfair competition law, and/or state consumer protection law, as alleged in the Second and Third Claims for Relief;
- (f) Whether the Defendants unjustly enriched themselves to the detriment of the Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes, thereby entitling Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes to disgorgement of all benefits derived by the Defendants, as alleged in the Fourth Claim for Relief;
- (g) Whether the conduct of the Defendants and their co-conspirators, as alleged in this Complaint, caused injury to the business or property of Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes;

- (h) The effect of the alleged conspiracy on the prices of Steering Angle Sensors sold in the United States during the Class Period;
- (i) Whether Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes had any reason to know or suspect the conspiracy, or any means to discover the conspiracy;
- (j) Whether the Defendants and their co-conspirators fraudulently concealed the conspiracy's existence from Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes;
- (k) The appropriate injunctive and related equitable relief for the Nationwide Class; and
- (l) The appropriate class-wide measure of damages for the Damages Class.

196. Plaintiffs' claims are typical of the claims of the members of the Classes, and Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Classes. Plaintiffs and all members of the Classes are similarly affected by the Defendants' wrongful conduct in that they paid artificially inflated prices for Steering Angle Sensors purchased indirectly from the Defendants and/or their co-conspirators.

197. Plaintiffs' claims arise out of the same common course of conduct giving rise to the claims of the other members of the Classes. Plaintiffs' interests are coincident with, and not antagonistic to, those of the other members of the Classes. Plaintiffs are represented by counsel who are competent and experienced in the prosecution of antitrust and class action litigation.

198. The questions of law and fact common to the members of the Classes predominate over any questions affecting only individual members, including legal and factual issues relating to liability and damages.

199. Class action treatment is a superior method for the fair and efficient adjudication of the controversy, in that, among other things, such treatment will permit a large number of similarly situated persons to prosecute their common claims in a single forum simultaneously, efficiently and without the unnecessary duplication of evidence, effort and expense that numerous individual actions would engender. The benefits of proceeding through the class mechanism, including providing injured persons or entities with a method for obtaining redress for claims that might not be practicable to pursue individually, substantially outweigh any difficulties that may arise in the management of this class action.

200. The prosecution of separate actions by individual members of the Classes would create a risk of inconsistent or varying adjudications, establishing incompatible standards of conduct for the Defendants.

PLAINTIFFS AND THE CLASSES SUFFERED ANTITRUST INJURY

201. The Defendants' price-fixing conspiracy had the following effects, among others:

- (a) Price competition has been restrained or eliminated with respect to Steering Angle Sensors;
- (b) The prices of Steering Angle Sensors have been fixed, raised, maintained, or stabilized at artificially inflated levels;
- (c) Indirect purchasers of Steering Angle Sensors have been deprived of free and open competition;
- (d) Defendants charged direct purchasers of their Steering Angle Sensors inflated prices as a result of the conspiracy;
- (e) Having paid higher prices for components of the cars they sold to Plaintiffs and the Classes and the Steering Angle Sensors they sold to Plaintiffs and the Classes, firms who sold Defendants' Steering Angle Sensors and vehicles to Plaintiffs and the Classes passed Defendants' overcharges on to them;
- (f) Defendants' overcharges passed through each level of distribution as they traveled to Plaintiffs and the Classes;
- (g) Automobile dealers purchasing Steering Angle Sensors and vehicles containing Steering Angle Sensors have been deprived of free and open competition; and
- (h) Indirect purchasers of Steering Angle Sensors paid artificially inflated prices.

202. During the Class Period, Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes paid supracompetitive prices for Steering Angle Sensors, as a result of the Defendants' conspiracy.

203. An increase in the prices of Steering Angle Sensors caused an increase in the price of vehicles during the Class Period.

204. The markets for Steering Angle Sensors and vehicles are inextricably linked and intertwined because the market for Steering Angle Sensors exists to serve the vehicle market. Without the vehicles, Steering Angle Sensors have little to no value because they have no independent utility and must be inserted into vehicles to serve any function. Indeed, the demand for vehicles creates the demand for Steering Angle Sensors. As stated in the 2010 Annual Report of Lear Corporation, an automobile parts supplier: "Our sales are driven by the number of vehicles produced by the automotive manufacturers, which is ultimately dependent on consumer fleet demand for automotive vehicles."

205. Steering Angle Sensors are identifiable, discrete physical products that remain essentially unchanged when incorporated into a vehicle. As a result, Steering Angle Sensors follow a traceable physical chain of distribution from the Defendants to Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes, and any costs attributable to Steering Angle Sensors can be traced through the chain of distribution to Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes.

206. Just as Steering Angle Sensors can be physically traced through the supply chain, so can their price be traced to show that changes in the prices paid by direct purchasers of Steering Angle Sensors affect prices paid by indirect purchasers of new motor vehicles containing Steering Angle Sensors and Steering Angle Sensors purchased for repair purposes.

207. Steering Angle Sensors have their own part numbers, which permit them to be tracked.

208. The Steering Angle Sensors subject to the Defendants' conspiracy and at issue in this lawsuit only have one use: to be inserted into vehicles. Whether Steering Angle Sensors are sold by themselves or in vehicles, their purpose is to be inserted into vehicles.

209. The purpose of the conspiratorial conduct of the Defendants and their co-conspirators was to raise, fix, rig, or stabilize the prices of Steering Angle Sensors and, as a direct and foreseeable result, the prices of new motor vehicles containing Steering Angle Sensors and the prices of Steering Angle Sensors purchased for repair purposes. Economists have developed techniques to isolate and understand the relationship between one "explanatory" variable and a "dependent" variable in those cases when changes in the dependent variable are explained by changes in a multitude of variables, even when all such variables may be changing simultaneously. That analysis – called regression analysis – is commonly used in the real world and in litigation to determine the impact of a price increase on one cost in a product (or service) that is an assemblage of costs. Thus, an economist can isolate and identify only the impact of an increase in the prices of Steering Angle Sensors on prices for new motor vehicles even though such products contain a number of other components whose prices may be changing over time. A regression model can explain how variation in the prices of Steering Angle Sensors affects changes in the price of new motor vehicles. In such models, the prices of Steering Angle Sensors would be treated as independent or explanatory variables. The model can isolate how changes in the prices of Steering Angle Sensors impact the price of new motor vehicles containing Steering Angle Sensors while controlling for the impact of other price-determining factors.

210. The precise amount of the overcharge impacting the prices of new motor vehicles containing Steering Angle Sensors can be measured and quantified. Commonly used and well-accepted economic models can be used to measure both the extent and the amount of the supracompetitive charge passed through the chain of distribution. Thus, the economic harm to Plaintiffs and class members can be quantified.

211. By reason of the violations of the antitrust law alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes have sustained injury to their businesses or property, having paid higher prices for Steering Angle Sensors than they would have paid in the absence of the Defendants' and their co-conspirators' illegal contract, combination, or conspiracy, and, as a result, have suffered damages in an amount presently undetermined. This is an antitrust injury of the type that the antitrust laws were meant to punish and prevent, and Plaintiffs' and Class members' damages are measurable.

PLAINTIFFS' CLAIMS ARE NOT BARRED BY THE STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

A. The Statute of Limitations Did Not Begin to Run Because Plaintiffs Did Not And Could Not Discover Their Claims

212. Plaintiffs repeat and re-allege the allegations set forth above.

213. Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes had no knowledge of the combination or conspiracy alleged herein, or of facts sufficient to place them on inquiry notice of the claims set forth herein, until (at the earliest) July 18, 2013, the date that the DOJ publicly announced Defendant Panasonic Corporation's anticipated guilty plea.

214. Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes are automobile dealers who purchased automobiles or purchased Steering Angle Sensors to replace or repair damaged or defective Steering Angle Sensors in their automobiles. They had no direct contact or interaction with the Defendants in this case and had no means from which they could have discovered the combination and conspiracy described in this Complaint before July 18, 2013, the date that the DOJ publicly announced Defendant Panasonic Corporation's anticipated guilty plea.

215. No information in the public domain was available to the Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes prior to July 18, 2013, the date that the DOJ publicly announced Defendant Panasonic Corporation's anticipated guilty plea, that revealed sufficient information to suggest that the Defendants were involved in a criminal conspiracy to price-fix and rig bids for Steering Angle Sensors. Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes had no means of obtaining any facts or information concerning any aspect of the Defendants' dealings with OEMs or other direct purchasers, much less the fact that they and their co-conspirators had engaged in the combination and conspiracy alleged herein.

216. For these reasons, the statute of limitations as to Plaintiffs' and the Classes' claims did not begin to run, and has been tolled with respect to the claims that Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes have alleged in this Complaint.

F. Fraudulent Concealment Tolled the Statute of Limitations

217. In the alternative, application of the doctrine of fraudulent concealment tolled the statute of limitations on the claims asserted herein by Plaintiffs and the Classes. Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes did not discover, and could not discover through the exercise of reasonable diligence, the existence of the conspiracy alleged herein until July 18, 2013, the date that the DOJ publicly announced Defendant Panasonic Corporation's anticipated guilty plea.

218. Because the Defendants' agreements, understandings, and conspiracies were kept secret until July 18, 2013, Plaintiffs and members of the Classes were unaware before that time of the Defendants' unlawful conduct, and they did not know before then that they were paying supracompetitive prices for Steering Angle Sensors throughout the United States during the Class Period. No information, actual or constructive, was ever made available to Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes that indicated to Plaintiffs that they were being injured by the Defendants' unlawful conduct.

219. The affirmative acts of the Defendants alleged herein, including acts in furtherance of the conspiracy, were wrongfully concealed and carried out in a manner that precluded detection.

220. The Defendants had secret communications to collusively fix prices, rig bids, and allocate markets for Steering Angle Sensors.

221. As Attorney General Eric Holder has explained, the Defendants and other auto-parts manufacturers “employ[ed] measures to keep their conduct secret, including, but not limited to, using code names and meeting at remote locations.” This is confirmed by the Information filed against Defendant Panasonic Corporation, which reports that Defendants and their co-conspirators employed “measures to keep their conduct secret, including using code names and choosing meeting places and times to avoid detection.” The same is true of the Information filed against Defendant Hitachi, which states that Defendants and their co-conspirators employed “measures to keep their conduct secret, including, but not limited to, using code names and meeting at remote locations.”

222. Defendants also concealed their conspiracy by submitting bids to OEMs, to give the appearance of competition, despite having already determined among themselves who would win each bid.

223. Additionally, Hitachi admitted to destroying and/or altering documents in an effort to cover up its unlawful activity.

224. According to Hitachi’s plea agreement, in February 2010, Hitachi’s employees became aware of the criminal investigation into the price-fixing of automotive parts, including alternators, when one of its co-conspirators was searched by law enforcement officers in the United States. Upon learning of the searches, Hitachi’s employees took steps to destroy evidence of the criminal activity. In July 2011, Hitachi's employees learned that Hitachi was being raided by law enforcement outside the United States. After learning of the search, Hitachi's employees took more steps to destroy evidence of the criminal activity. On both occasions, the evidence that was destroyed included files and paper documents. Certain employees involved in the efforts to destroy evidence were Hitachi's senior managers.

225. By its very nature, the Defendants' and their co-conspirators' anticompetitive conspiracy was inherently self-concealing. Steering Angle Sensors are not exempt from antitrust regulation, and thus, before July 18, 2013, Plaintiffs reasonably considered it to be a competitive industry. Accordingly, a reasonable person under the circumstances would not have been alerted to begin to investigate the legitimacy of the Defendants' Steering Angle Sensor prices before July 18, 2013.

226. Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes could not have discovered the alleged contract, conspiracy or combination at an earlier date by the exercise of reasonable diligence because of the deceptive practices and techniques of secrecy employed by the Defendants and their co-conspirators to avoid detection of, and fraudulently conceal, their contract, combination, or conspiracy.

227. Because the alleged conspiracy was both self-concealing and affirmatively concealed by the Defendants and their co-conspirators, Plaintiffs and members of the Classes had no knowledge of the alleged conspiracy, or of any facts or information that would have caused a reasonably diligent person to investigate whether a conspiracy existed, until July 18, 2013, the date that the DOJ publicly announced Defendant Panasonic Corporation's anticipated guilty plea.

228. As a result of the Defendants' fraudulent concealment of their conspiracy, the running of any statute of limitations has been tolled with respect to the claims of Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes, and did not begin to run until July 18, 2013.

FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF
Violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Act
(on behalf of Plaintiffs and the Nationwide Class)

229. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference the allegations in the preceding paragraphs.

230. The Defendants and unnamed co-conspirators entered into and engaged in a contract, combination, or conspiracy in unreasonable restraint of trade in violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Act (15 U.S.C. § 1).

231. The acts done by the Defendants as part of, and in furtherance of, their and their co-conspirators' contract, combination, or conspiracy were authorized, ordered, or done by their officers, agents, employees, or representatives while actively engaged in the management of their affairs.

232. At least as early as September 2000, and continuing until at least the filing of this Complaint, the exact dates being unknown to Plaintiffs, the Defendants and their co-conspirators entered into a continuing agreement, understanding and conspiracy in restraint of trade to artificially fix, raise, stabilize, and control prices for Steering Angle Sensors, thereby creating anticompetitive effects.

233. The anticompetitive acts were intentionally directed at the United States market for Steering Angle Sensors and had a substantial and foreseeable effect on interstate commerce by raising and fixing prices for Steering Angle Sensors throughout the United States.

234. The conspiratorial acts and combinations have caused unreasonable restraints in the market for Steering Angle Sensors.

235. As a result of the Defendants' unlawful conduct, Plaintiffs and other similarly situated indirect purchasers in the Nationwide Class who purchased Steering Angle Sensors have been harmed by being forced to pay inflated, supracompetitive prices for Steering Angle Sensors.

236. In formulating and carrying out the alleged agreement, understanding and conspiracy, the Defendants and their co-conspirators did those things that they combined and conspired to do, including but not limited to the acts, practices and course of conduct set forth herein.

237. The Defendants' and their co-conspirators' conspiracy had the following effects, among others:

(a) Price competition in the market for Steering Angle Sensors has been restrained, suppressed, and/or eliminated in the United States;

(b) Prices for Steering Angle Sensors sold by the Defendants and their co-conspirators have been fixed, raised, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high, non-competitive levels throughout the United States; and

(c) Plaintiffs and members of the Nationwide Class who purchased Steering Angle Sensors indirectly from the Defendants and their co-conspirators have been deprived of the benefits of free and open competition.

238. Plaintiffs and members of the Nationwide Class will continue to be subject to Defendants' price-fixing, bid-rigging, and market allocations, which will deprive Plaintiffs and members of the Nationwide Class of the benefits of free competition, including competitively-priced Steering Angle Sensors and vehicles.

239. Plaintiffs and members of the Nationwide Class will continue to lose funds due to overpayment for Steering Angle Sensors and vehicles containing Steering Angle Sensors because they are required to purchase vehicles and Steering Angle Sensors to continue to operate their businesses.

240. Plaintiffs and members of the Nationwide Class continue to purchase vehicles and Steering Angle Sensors, on a regular basis.

241. Vehicles and Steering Angle Sensors continue to be sold at inflated and supracompetitive prices.

242. Plaintiffs and members of the Nationwide Class will be at the mercy of Defendants' unlawful conduct until the Court orders an injunction.

243. The alleged contract, combination, or conspiracy is a per se violation of the federal antitrust laws.

244. Plaintiffs and members of the Nationwide Class are entitled to an injunction against the Defendants, preventing and restraining the violations alleged herein.

277. Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class in each of the above states have been injured in their business and property by reason of the Defendants' and their co-conspirators' unlawful combination, contract, conspiracy and agreement. Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class have paid more for Steering Angle Sensors than they otherwise would have paid in the absence of the Defendants' unlawful conduct. This injury is of the type the antitrust laws of the above states were designed to prevent and flows from that which makes the Defendants' conduct unlawful.

278. In addition, the Defendants have profited significantly from the aforesaid conspiracy. The Defendants' profits derived from their anticompetitive conduct come at the expense and detriment of the Plaintiffs and the members of the Damages Class.

279. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the members of the Damages Class in each of the above jurisdictions seek damages (including statutory damages where applicable), to be trebled or otherwise increased as permitted by a particular jurisdiction's antitrust law, and costs of suit, including reasonable attorneys' fees, to the extent permitted by the above state laws.

THIRD CLAIM FOR RELIEF

Violation of State Consumer Protection Statutes
(on behalf of Plaintiffs and the Damages Class)

280. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference the allegations in the preceding paragraphs.

281. The Defendants engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, deceptive or fraudulent acts or practices in violation of the state consumer protection and unfair competition statutes listed below.

282. The Defendants have knowingly entered into an unlawful agreement in restraint of trade in violation of the Arkansas Code Annotated, § 4-88-101.

(a) The Defendants knowingly agreed to, and did in fact, act in restraint of trade or commerce by affecting, fixing, controlling, and/or maintaining at non-competitive and artificially inflated levels, the prices at which Steering Angle Sensors were sold, distributed, or obtained in Arkansas and took efforts to conceal their agreements from Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class.

(b) The aforementioned conduct on the part of the Defendants constituted “unconscionable” and “deceptive” acts or practices in violation of Arkansas Code Annotated, § 4-88-107(a)(10).

(c) The Defendants’ unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) Steering Angle Sensor price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Arkansas; (2) Steering Angle Sensor prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout Arkansas; (3) Plaintiffs and the members of the Damages Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) Plaintiffs and the members of the Damages Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Steering Angle Sensors and vehicles containing Steering Angle Sensors.

(d) During the Class Period, the Defendants’ illegal conduct substantially affected Arkansas commerce and consumers.

(e) As a direct and proximate result of the unlawful conduct of the Defendants, Plaintiffs and the members of the Damages Class have been injured in their business and property and are threatened with further injury.

283. The Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of Arkansas Code Annotated, § 4-88-107(a)(10) and, accordingly, Plaintiffs and the members of the Damages Class seek all relief available under that statute.

284. The Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, deceptive or fraudulent acts or practices in violation of California Business and Professions Code § 17200, et seq.

(a) During the Class Period, the Defendants committed and continue to commit acts of unfair competition, as defined by Sections 17200, et seq. of the California Business and Professions Code, by engaging in the acts and practices specified above.

(b) This claim is instituted pursuant to Sections 17203 and 17204 of the California Business and Professions Code, to obtain restitution from the Defendants for acts, as alleged herein, that violated Section 17200 of the California Business and Professions Code, commonly known as the Unfair Competition Law.

(c) The Defendants' conduct as alleged herein violated Section 17200. The acts, omissions, misrepresentations, practices and non-disclosures of the Defendants, as alleged herein, constituted a common, continuous, and continuing course of conduct of unfair competition by means of unfair, unlawful, and/or fraudulent business acts or practices within the meaning of California Business and Professions Code, Section 17200, et seq., including, but not limited to, the following: (1) the violations of Section 1 of the Sherman Act, as set forth above; (2) the violations of Section 16720, et seq., of the California Business and Professions Code, set forth above;

(d) The Defendants' acts, omissions, misrepresentations, practices, and non-disclosures, as described above, whether or not in violation of Section 16720, et seq., of the California Business and Professions Code, and whether or not concerted or independent acts, are otherwise unfair, unconscionable, unlawful or fraudulent;

(e) The Defendants' acts or practices are unfair to purchasers of Steering Angle Sensors (or vehicles containing them) in the State of California within the meaning of Section 17200, California Business and Professions Code; and

(f) The Defendants' acts and practices are fraudulent or deceptive within the meaning of Section 17200 of the California Business and Professions Code.

(g) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class are entitled to full restitution and/or disgorgement of all revenues, earnings, profits, compensation, and benefits that may have been obtained by the Defendants as a result of such business acts or practices.

(h) The illegal conduct alleged herein is continuing and there is no indication that the Defendants will not continue such activity into the future.

(i) The unlawful and unfair business practices of the Defendants have caused and continue to cause the following effects: (1) Steering Angle Sensor price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout California; (2) Steering Angle Sensor prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout California; (3) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class, including those who resided in California and/ or purchased Steering Angle Sensors or vehicles in California, were deprived of free and open competition, including in California; and (4) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class, including those who resided in California and/or purchased Steering Angle Sensors or vehicles in California, paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Steering Angle Sensors and vehicles containing Steering Angle Sensors, including in California.

(j) The conduct of the Defendants as alleged in this Complaint violates Section 17200 of the California Business and Professions Code.

(k) As alleged in this Complaint, the Defendants and their co-conspirators have been unjustly enriched as a result of their wrongful conduct and by the Defendants' unfair competition. Plaintiffs and the members of the Damages Class are accordingly entitled to equitable relief including restitution and/or disgorgement of all revenues, earnings, profits, compensation, and benefits that may have been obtained by the Defendants as a result of such business practices, pursuant to the California Business and Professions Code, Sections 17203 and 17204.

285. The Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, or deceptive acts or practices in violation of the Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act, Fla. Stat. §§ 501.201, et seq.

(a) The Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) Steering Angle Sensor price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Florida; (2) Steering Angle Sensor prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout Florida; (3) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Steering Angle Sensors.

(b) During the Class Period, the Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected Florida commerce and consumers.

(c) As a direct and proximate result of the Defendants' unlawful conduct, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class have been injured and are threatened with further injury.

(d) The Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of Florida Stat. § 501.201, et seq., and, accordingly, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class seek all relief available under that statute.

286. The Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, or deceptive acts or practices in violation of the New Mexico Stat. § 57-12-1, et seq.

(a) The Defendants and their co-conspirators agreed to, and did in fact, act in restraint of trade or commerce by affecting, fixing, controlling and/or maintaining at non-competitive and artificially inflated levels, the prices at which Steering Angle Sensors were sold, distributed or obtained in New Mexico and took efforts to conceal their agreements from Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class.

(b) Plaintiffs were not aware of Defendants' price-fixing conspiracy and were therefore unaware that they were being unfairly and illegally overcharged. There was a gross disparity of bargaining power between the parties with respect to the price charged by Defendants for Steering Angle Sensors. Defendants had the sole power to set that price and Plaintiffs had no power to negotiate a lower price. Moreover, Plaintiffs lacked any meaningful choice in purchasing Steering Angle Sensors because they were unaware of the unlawful overcharge and because they had to purchase Steering Angle Sensors in order to be able to operate their vehicles. Defendants' conduct with regard to sales of Steering Angle Sensors, including their illegal conspiracy to secretly fix the price of Steering Angle Sensors at supracompetitive levels and overcharge consumers, was substantively unconscionable because it was one-sided and unfairly benefited Defendants at the expense of Plaintiffs and the public. Defendants took grossly unfair advantage of Plaintiffs.

(c) The aforementioned conduct on the part of the Defendants constituted “unconscionable trade practices,” in violation of N.M.S.A. Stat. § 57-12-3, in that such conduct, inter alia, resulted in a gross disparity between the value received by Plaintiffs and the members of the Damages Class and the prices paid by them for Steering Angle Sensors as set forth in N.M.S.A., § 57-12-2E due to the inflated prices paid by Plaintiffs and Class members for vehicles and Steering Angle Sensors.

(d) The Defendants’ unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) Steering Angle Sensors price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout New Mexico; (2) Steering Angle Sensors prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout New Mexico; (3) Plaintiffs and the members of the Damages Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) Plaintiffs and the members of the Damages Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Steering Angle Sensors.

(e) During the Class Period, the Defendants’ illegal conduct substantially affected New Mexico commerce and consumers.

(f) As a direct and proximate result of the unlawful conduct of the Defendants, Plaintiffs and the members of the Damages Class have been injured and are threatened with further injury.

(g) The Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of New Mexico Stat. § 57-12-1, et seq., and, accordingly, Plaintiffs and the members of the Damages Class seek all relief available under that statute.

287. The Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, or deceptive acts or practices in violation of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law § 349, et seq.

(a) The Defendants and their co-conspirators agree to, and did in fact, act in restraint of trade or commerce by affecting, fixing, controlling and/or maintaining, at artificial and non-competitive levels, the prices at which Steering Angle Sensors were sold, distributed or obtained in New York and took efforts to conceal their agreements from Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class.

(b) Defendants deceptively led purchasers, such as Plaintiffs and Class members, to believe that the Steering Angle Sensors they had purchased as replacements and inside vehicles had been sold at legal competitive prices, when they had in fact been sold at collusively obtained inflated prices, that were passed on to them.

(c) The conduct of the Defendants described herein constitutes consumer-oriented deceptive acts or practices within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law § 349, which resulted in injuries to purchasers and broad adverse impact on the public at large, and harmed the public interest of New York State in an honest marketplace in which economic activity is conducted in a competitive manner.

(d) The Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) Steering Angle Sensors price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout New York; (2) Steering Angle Sensors prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout New York; (3) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class, including those who resided in and/or made purchases of vehicles or Steering Angle Sensors in New York were deprived of free and open competition, including in New York; and (4) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class, including those who resided in and/or made purchases or vehicles or Steering Angle Sensors in New York paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Steering Angle Sensors, including in New York.

(e) Because of Defendants' unlawful trade practices in the State of New York, New York purchasers who indirectly purchased Steering Angle Sensors were misled to believe that they were paying a fair price for Steering Angle Sensors or the price increases for Steering Angle Sensors were for valid business reasons; and similarly situated purchasers were affected by Defendants' conspiracy.

(f) During the Class Period, the Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected New York commerce and New York purchasers.

(g) During the Class Period, the Defendants directly, or indirectly and through affiliates they dominated and controlled, manufactured, sold and/or distributed Steering Angle Sensors in New York.

(h) Defendants knew that their unlawful trade practices with respect to pricing Occupant Safety Restraint Systems would have a broad impact, causing class members who indirectly purchased Steering Angle Sensors to be injured by paying more for Steering Angle Sensors than they would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful trade acts and practices.

(i) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class seek all relief available pursuant to N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law § 349 (h).

288. The Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, or deceptive acts or practices in violation of North Carolina Gen. Stat. § 75-1.1, et seq.

(a) The Defendants and their co-conspirators agreed to, and did in fact, act in restraint of trade or commerce by affecting, fixing, controlling and/or maintaining, at artificial and non-competitive levels, the prices at which Steering Angle Sensors were sold, distributed or obtained in North Carolina and took efforts to conceal their agreements from Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class.

(b) The conduct of the Defendants described herein constitutes consumer-oriented deceptive acts or practices within the meaning of North Carolina law, which resulted in injury to purchasers and broad adverse impact on the public at large, and harmed the public interest of North Carolina purchasers in an honest marketplace in which economic activity is conducted in a competitive manner.

(c) The Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) Steering Angle Sensors price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout North Carolina; (2) Steering Angle Sensors prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout North Carolina; (3) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class, including those who resided in and/or made purchases of vehicles or Steering Angle Sensors in North Carolina were deprived of free and open competition, including in North Carolina; and (4) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class, including those who resided in and/or made purchases of vehicles or Steering Angle Sensors in North Carolina paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Steering Angle Sensors, including in North Carolina.

(d) During the Class Period, the Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected North Carolina commerce and purchasers in North Carolina.

(e) Defendants deceptively concealed their unlawful activities by conducting meetings and conversations in secret.

(f) During the Class Period, the Defendants directly, or indirectly and through affiliates they dominated and controlled, manufactured, sold and/or distributed Steering Angle Sensors in North Carolina.

(g) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class seek actual damages for their injuries caused by these violations in an amount to be determined at trial and are threatened with further injury. The Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of North Carolina Gen. Stat. § 75-1.1, et seq., and, accordingly, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class seek all relief available under that statute.

289. The Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, or deceptive acts or practices in violation of South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act, S.C. Code Ann. §§ 39-5-10, et seq.

(a) The Defendants' combinations or conspiracies had the following effects: (1) Steering Angle Sensor price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout South Carolina; (2) Steering Angle System prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout South Carolina; (3) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Steering Angle Sensors and vehicles containing Steering Angle Sensors.

(b) During the Class Period, the Defendants' illegal conduct had a substantial effect on South Carolina commerce.

(c) As a direct and proximate result of the Defendants' unlawful conduct, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class have been injured in their business and property and are threatened with further injury.

290. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of S.C. Code Ann. §§ 39-5-10, et seq., and, accordingly, Plaintiffs and the members of the Damages Class seek all relief available under that statute.

291. The Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, or deceptive acts or practices in violation of 9 Vermont § 2451, et seq.

(a) The Defendants and their co-conspirators agreed to, and did in fact, act in restraint of trade or commerce in a market that includes Vermont by affecting, fixing, controlling, and/or maintaining, at artificial and non-competitive levels, the prices at which Steering Angle Sensors were sold, distributed, or obtained in Vermont.

(b) The Defendants deliberately failed to disclose material facts to Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class concerning their unlawful activities and artificially inflated prices for Steering Angle Sensors. The Defendants owed a duty to disclose such facts, and breached that duty by their silence. The Defendants misrepresented to all purchasers during the Class Period that their Steering Angle Sensor prices were competitive and fair.

(c) The Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) Steering Angle Sensor price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Vermont; (2) Steering Angle Sensor prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout Vermont; (3) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Steering Angle Sensors.

(d) As a direct and proximate result of the Defendants' violations of law, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class suffered an ascertainable loss of money or property as a result of the Defendants' use or employment of unconscionable and deceptive commercial practices as set forth above. That loss was caused by the Defendants' willful and deceptive conduct, as described herein.

(e) The Defendants' deception, including their omissions concerning the prices of Steering Angle Sensors, likely misled all purchasers acting reasonably under the circumstances to believe that they were purchasing Steering Angle Sensors at prices born by a free and fair market. The Defendants' misleading conduct and unconscionable activities constitutes unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of 9 Vermont § 2451, et seq., and, accordingly, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class seek all relief available under that statute.

FOURTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF

Unjust Enrichment on behalf of Plaintiffs and the Damages Class

292. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference the allegations in the preceding paragraphs.

293. Plaintiffs bring this claim under the laws of all states listed in the Second and Third Claims, supra. Plaintiffs also bring this claim under the laws of Missouri, Massachusetts and Illinois on behalf of the Plaintiffs who have their primary places of business in those three states and the class members in those three states.

294. As a result of their unlawful conduct described above, the Defendants have and will continue to be unjustly enriched. The Defendants have been unjustly enriched by the receipt of, at a minimum, unlawfully inflated prices and unlawful profits on sales of Steering Angle Sensors.

295. The Defendants have benefited from their unlawful acts and it would be inequitable for the Defendants to be permitted to retain any of the ill-gotten gains resulting from the overpayments made by Plaintiffs or the members of the Damages Class for Steering Angle Sensors.

296. Plaintiffs and the members of the Damages Class are entitled to the amount of the Defendants' ill-gotten gains resulting from their unlawful, unjust, and inequitable conduct. Plaintiffs and the members of the Damages Class are entitled to the establishment of a constructive trust consisting of all ill-gotten gains from which Plaintiffs and the members of the Damages Class may make claims on a pro rata basis.

297. Pursuit of any remedies against the firms from whom Plaintiffs and the Class members purchased vehicles containing Steering Angle Sensors and Steering Angle Sensors subject to the Defendants' conspiracy would have been futile, given that those firms did not take part in the Defendants' conspiracy.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

Accordingly, Plaintiffs respectfully request that:

A. The Court determine that this action may be maintained as a class action under Rule 23(a), (b)(2) and (b)(3) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, and direct that reasonable notice of this action, as provided by Rule 23(c)(2) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, be given to each and every member of the Classes;

B. That the unlawful conduct, contract, conspiracy, or combination alleged herein be adjudged and decreed:

- (a) An unreasonable restraint of trade or commerce in violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Act;
- (b) A per se violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Act;
- (c) Acts of unjust enrichment by Defendants as set forth herein; and
- (d) An unlawful combination, trust, agreement, understanding and/or concert of action in violation of the state antitrust and unfair competition and consumer protection laws as set forth herein.

C. Plaintiffs and the members of the Damages Class recover damages, to the maximum extent allowed under such laws, and that a joint and several judgment in favor of Plaintiffs and the members of the Damages Class be entered against the Defendants in an amount to be trebled to the extent such laws permit;

D. Plaintiffs and the members of the Damages Class recover damages, to the maximum extent allowed by such laws, in the form of restitution and/or disgorgement of profits unlawfully gained from them;

E. The Defendants, their affiliates, successors, transferees, assignees and other officers, directors, partners, agents and employees thereof, and all other persons acting or claiming to act on their behalf or in concert with them, be permanently enjoined and restrained from in any manner continuing, maintaining or renewing the conduct, contract, conspiracy, or combination alleged herein, or from entering into any other contract, conspiracy, or combination having a similar purpose or effect, and from adopting or following any practice, plan, program, or device having a similar purpose or effect;

F. Plaintiffs and the members of the Damages Class be awarded restitution, including disgorgement of profits the Defendants obtained as a result of their acts of unfair competition and unjust enrichment;

G. Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes be awarded pre- and post- judgment interest as provided by law, and that such interest be awarded at the highest legal rate from and after the date of service of this Complaint;

H. Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes recover their costs of suit, including reasonable attorneys' fees, as provided by law; and

I. Plaintiffs and members of the Classes have such other and further relief as the case may require and the Court may deem just and proper.

JURY DEMAND

Plaintiffs demand a trial by jury, pursuant to Rule 38(b) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, of all issues so triable.
